I strongly wish government was less involved in many aspects of business. I believe the consumer will decide what products do well by their desire to purchase or not. Where would we be without microsofts inventions? America was founded on the idea of free enterprise. Let it be. The tax payer should not have to continue to support these government actions. If competitors come up with a better product it will sell. Lets let the public consumer decide which products it uses and how. L.H.
